Access Sarasota to air Florida legislative session Tuesday

Access Sarasota will air the first week of the Florida Legislature's 2008 session at 8 a.m. on Tuesday, March 4. In addition, streaming video of the session's first week will be available on the county's Web site at www.scgov.net by clicking on the Access Sarasota Live link.

After the opening week, additional coverage of the legislative session will continue on the Florida Channel (check with your cable provider for the specific channel). The Florida Channel also airs two additional programs about the legislative session.

Capitol Update is a half-hour public affairs program that airs nightly when the Florida Legislature is in session and weekly the remainder of the year. Through in-depth reporting, live interviews, and regularly occurring segments like Budget Watch and Bill Track, the program provides viewers with a clear, concise and balanced view of state government in action.

Florida Face to Face is an in-depth interview program where state leaders and policymakers discuss issues affecting Floridians. Guests regularly include the governor and cabinet, Senate president and House speaker, education commissioner and other agency heads.
