‘Buddy & Beyond’ hits the stage at the Venice Community Center

Buddy Holly’s stellar career took him to the pinnacle of rock and roll in just 18 months. He died tragically in a plane crash on Feb. 3, 1959, but his influence would be felt for generations through the works of artists like the Beatles, the Rolling Stones, Bob Dylan and Eric Clapton.

Johnny Rogers will perform the greatest hits of Buddy Holly and other music legends at 7 p.m. Friday, Jan. 13 at the Venice Community Center, 326 Nokomis Ave. South, Venice. Tickets are $25 and $20 and they are going fast, so don’t delay.

Having a passion for Buddy Holly’s music is one thing, but having the talent to perform the world’s finest tribute to a music legend is another. Johnny Rogers has both and shares this music with audiences worldwide.

Along with Buddy Holly, the show brings you music from a young Elvis, Jerry Lee Lewis, Chuck Berry, Ricky Nelson, The Beatles, Creedence Clearwater Revival and others. Rogers has thrilled audiences around the globe with his portrayal of Buddy Holly.
