Sarasota County launches new online public access for commissioner/administrator email

Sarasota County has launched a new online site for public access to email between County Commissioners and between the County Administrator and Commissioners. A link to the site is posted on the Sarasota County government home page at www.scgov.net.

The email site also may be reached at <https://scginternet.scgov.net/email/Pages/default.aspx>

The new site significantly improves public access to emails and makes it possible for the public to search by topic, individuals and date. Emails also contain links to show attachments.

Emails will be listed on the site if they were sent after 8 a.m. today. The site normally will show 60 days' of email. The new site doesn't require a username or password.

Email sent prior to today still may be found at the previous public access email location, <https://webmail.scgov.net>. The username is "publicaccess," and the password is "public."

Email older than that will be available through public record requests. The previous public access site won't be available after March 31.

The new email website also contains links for:

- Commissioner email (Effective Feb. 1)
- Public Access email (Effective until March 31)
- Public Information
- Public Records Request
- Speaker's Bureau
- Meetings and agendas
- County Administration
- County Attorney
- Community Connections E-news
- Financial Transparency
